

| SUBTHEORY | POPULAR NAME | STERNBERG'S "NICKNAME" | EXPLANATION | EXAMPLE |
|--------------|----------------------------------|----------------------------|---|--|
| Componential | Logical, analytical intelligence | Book smart School smart | Related to problem-solving that requires a single solution. Traditional intelligence tests are useful for testing this. | Solving mathematical and logical issues. |
| Experiential | Artistic, creative intelligence | Street smart | Has to do with how you respond to new situations and whether you can get new ideas. | Write a short story, paint a picture, make an advertisement. |
| Contextual | Social, practical intelligence | | Has to do with how to solve tasks in everyday life and how to involve other people herein. | You are in a foreign country, and your wallet has been stolen. What do you do? |

FIGURE 4.24
The three sub-theories of Sternberg's triarchic intelligence concept.